October 10, 2018

Following months of hard work behind the scenes, Precoat Metals is pleased to announce the launch of our new website. The website will be live tomorrow October 11th, 2018 and you will reach it with the same URL as before, www.precoatmetals.com. You will still be able to quickly access CoilZone through a link in the right hand corner of every page header.

In addition to improving the aesthetics, efficiency and functionality of the site, one of our primary objectives was to make it compatible with mobile devices. We have achieved this goal and also eliminated the use of Flash to improve performance. You will also notice a greater focus on the “Markets” we serve and our “Innovation” capabilities, which includes the four brand families we recently introduced (PCM Dimensions™, PCM Mimics™, PCM Xtremes™ and PCM Foundations™).

This launch is the initial step of a multi-phase website upgrade. The new site is maintained internally and many of the additional enhancements are currently under development. We will notify you via postings on the website and CoilZone as we finalize the expanded content and prepare to roll out new pages, tools and functionality.

Sincerely,

John Messbarger
Vice President - Operating Services
